JUDGE MAUREEN A. TIGHE APPOINTED CHIEF BANKRUPTCY JUDGE

On January 1, 2019, Judge Maureen A. Tighe assumed the post of Chief Bankruptcy Judge for the Central District of California. Judge Tighe succeeds Judge Sheri Bluebond, who has served as Chief Bankruptcy Judge since 2015. She is the Central District's eighth Chief Bankruptcy Judge.

She clerked for District Judge Harold Ackerman in New Jersey and worked in private practice in New York before joining the U.S. Attorney's Office in Los Angeles in 1988. Over the decade she spent as an assistant U.S. attorney, Judge Tighe came to specialize in fraud, with a particular interest in bankruptcy fraud. She gained even more bankruptcy expertise during the five years in the Office of the U.S. Trustee that preceded her appointment as a judge.

Judge Tighe was appointed to the bench in 2003. In November 2017, Chief Circuit Judge Sidney R. Thomas announced her reappointment to a second 14-year term. Judge Tighe received her B.A. and J.D. from Rutgers University, where she was Editor-in-Chief of the Rutgers Law Review.

The Passing of the Gavel from Judge Bluebond to Judge Tighe will take place at the Richard H. Chambers U.S. Court of Appeals in Pasadena on Thursday, January 31, at 4 p.m.

REVISED LOCAL BANKRUPTCY RULES EFFECTIVE JANUARY 2

Amendments to five of the Court's Local Bankruptcy Rules have been approved by the Board of Judges and will take effect January 2.

LBR 2091-1, "Attorneys – Withdrawal, Substitution, and Change of Address," has been amended to clarify the process for withdrawal or substitution of an attorney and to require a motion when an individual represented by an attorney desires to represent him- or herself.

LBR 7026-1(b)(1), "Discovery Conference and Disclosures," has been amended to remedy ambiguities about when Rule 26 disclosures must be made.

LBR 9011-2(b), "Persons Appearing without Counsel," has been amended to clarify what it means for an individual to appear personally.

LBR 9013-1(j), "Motion Practice and Contested Matters," has undergone a technical revision for consistency: "unrepresented" has been replaced with "self-represented."

LBR 9021-1(b)(3), "Orders and Judgments," has been amended to address an inconsistency between 9021-1 and judges' practices related to the holding period for lodged orders.

The revised LBRs have been posted on the Local Bankruptcy Rules page of the Court's website, along with a redline summary of the revisions.

NINTH CIRCUIT CIVICS CONTEST ON FOURTH AMENDMENT ANNOUNCED

The Ninth Circuit has announced the theme of its annual civics contest for high school students. In 2019, contestants will consider “The Fourth Amendment in the 21st Century: What Is an ‘Unreasonable Search and Seizure’ in the Digital Age?” Essay and video submissions will choose some or all of the Supreme Court decisions Katz v. United States, United States v. Jones, Riley v. California, Carpenter v. United States, Kyllo v. United States, California v. Ciraolo, Florida v. Riley, and Dow Chemical Co. v. United States, in which the Supreme Court has applied the Fourth Amendment to new technology, and discuss the impact of those cases, if any, on the contestants’ lives. Individual students may submit an essay or a video, and teams of up to three students may collaborate on a video. A student may participate in both the essay and video competitions, but may submit only one essay and be involved in producing only one video.

High school students in the Central District are encouraged to enter the local contest, whose winners will receive cash prizes—$1,000 for first place, $750 for second place, and $500 for third place—and advance to the circuit-wide contest. The Central District’s first-place prize also includes a trip to this year’s Ninth Circuit Judicial Conference in Spokane, Washington, with a parent or guardian. Contest rules and entry instructions will be available from January 2 at www.ca9.uscourts.gov/civicscontest.

ORANGE COUNTY BANKRUPTCY CASE CLOSES AFTER 24 YEARS

The County of Orange filed a chapter 9 bankruptcy petition at the Santa Ana Division on December 6, 1994. Twenty-four years later, on November 15, 2018, the order of discharge was entered and the case closed.

Judge John E. Ryan was the first to preside over the case, then the largest municipal bankruptcy in U.S. history. (It has since been overtaken by the chapter 9 filings of Detroit, Michigan, and Jefferson County, Alabama.) The New York Times reported that the filing “shook the market for public borrowing across the country . . . threatening to make it more expensive for many localities to borrow” and “left some Wall Street firms facing the potential of big losses.” Public interest in the case was so great that Judge Ryan established two overflow areas for spectators and instituted a color-coded pass system for reporters, attorneys, parties, and the public.

Since Judge Ryan’s retirement in 2007, his colleague, Judge Erithe A. Smith, who was appointed to the bench several months before the Orange County case was opened, has presided over the chapter 9. It leaves behind over 300 file folders and nearly 6,000 docket entries.

JUDGE ROBERT N. KWAN PROFILED IN DAILY JOURNAL

On November 6, the Daily Journal published a profile of Judge Robert N. Kwan. The article, by Andy Serbe, describes Judge Kwan’s voluminous library, the view of Chinatown from his chambers, and the mountains of legal documents that require his attention: “Stacks of papers that make up literal walls go through his offices every month.”

Since the financial crisis, judges’ workloads have remained steady despite the decrease in filings, Judge Kwan explains. “The number of cases has gone down but the amount of work hasn’t gone down because we're busy, and we're busy because there seems to be more litigation and having more contested litigation matters. That's what I've noticed. That means more trials, more contested evidentiary hearings."

The profile follows Judge Kwan's path to the bankruptcy bench, which began while he was an assistant U.S. attorney in the Central District of California. Though he had not studied bankruptcy in law school, bankruptcy tax cases made up "about 40 percent" of his caseload at the U.S. Attorney's Office, Judge Kwan recalls. He learned bankruptcy law through Department of Justice instruction while he was working in the tax division of the U.S. Attorney's Office.

A former law clerk of Judge Kwan's who is now an attorney points out the extensive trial experience the judge gained as an assistant U.S. attorney. Attorneys who have appeared before Judge Kwan note his thorough grounding in bankruptcy law, his careful consideration of the matters before him, and the sophistication of his legal analysis.

DORSEY HIGH VISITS FOR FEDERAL COURTHOUSE EXPLORATION DAY

On December 6, approximately 35 students from Dorsey High School participated in Federal Courthouse Exploration Day, or FED Day, at the Los Angeles Division. The event included a courtroom session, during which Chief District Judge Virginia A. Phillips, District Judge Suzanne H. Segal, and Bankruptcy Judge Sandra R. Klein discussed their favorite amendments to the Constitution and notable Supreme Court decisions interpreting those amendments. Chief Judge Phillips focused on the First Amendment, Judge Segal on the Fourth Amendment, and Judge Klein on the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment.

The students then shared lunch with more than 50 volunteers (judges, lawyers, and other professionals) who provided advice and guidance regarding the students' short-term and long-term career plans. Joining the judges mentioned above were Chief Bankruptcy Judge Sheri Bluebond and Magistrate Judges Maria A. Audero, Paul L. Abrams, and Karen L. Stevenson. FED Day ended with a jobs panel of federal employees from the Bankruptcy Court, U.S. Probation and Pretrial Services, the Federal Public Defender's Office, the U.S. Marshals Service, and the Drug Enforcement Agency. They provided the students with an overview of the job opportunities available with the federal government, and emphasized the importance of staying in school, working hard, and setting career goals.
